Round up of news across some of our departments

Technology

Year 10 Product Design have been busy in the workshop completing their Electronic circuits that we started before the Christmas Break. They have developed their skills to read circuits diagrams, identify components successfully and they have developed their understanding of the functions of different electronic components.

They have worked incredibly hard in the workshop to solder accurately to avoid bridging their circuits and so far they all have working circuits with 16 flashing LEDs.

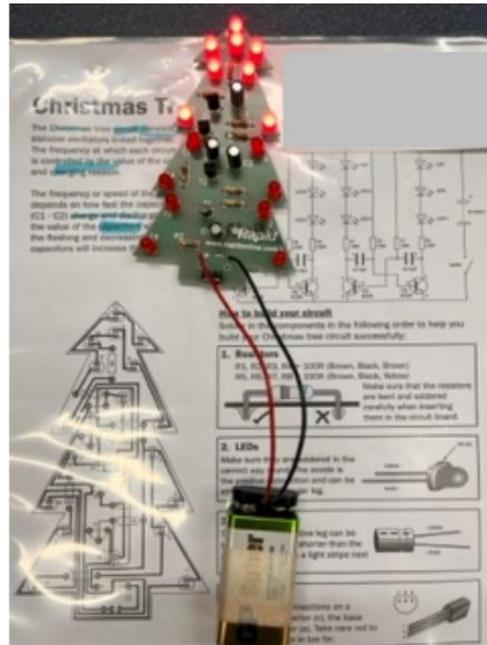

Well done from all the Design Technology Department.
